At all stages of career it can be helpful to observe another instructors’ class. Below is a list of faculty who welcome other instructors to observe their classes. A list of their semester classes can be found on the CAFE website. Please contact them individually to communicate with them when you will be observing their class.

Once you have observed other classes, you might consider having a colleague observe your class. CAFE offers a voluntary, confidential Teaching Partners Program to provide individualized feedback in specific areas you identify. Visit the CAFE website or contact cafe@mst.edu with questions about the Teaching Partners Program.

Instructors Who Can Be Observed

Diana Ahmad, Curators’ Teaching Professor, history & political science, ahmadd@mst.edu
Beth Cudney, associate professor, engineering management & systems engineering, cudney@mst.edu
Kelvin Erickson, Curator’s Professor, electrical & computer engineering, kte@mst.edu
Bill Fahrenholtz, Curators’ Professor, materials science and engineering, billf@mst.edu
Larry Gragg, Chancellor’s Professor, history & political science, lgragg@mst.edu
Amber Henslee, associate professor, psychological science, hensleea@mst.edu
John Hogan, associate professor, geosciences & geological & petroleum engineering, jhogan@mst.edu
Irina Ivliyeva, professor, arts, languages & philosophy, ivliyeva@mst.edu
Jonathan Kimball, professor, electrical and computer engineering, kimballjw@mst.edu
Mary Ann Koen, lecturer, civil, architectural and environmental engineering, koenma@mst.edu
Nick Libre, assistant teaching professor, civil, architectural and environmental engineering, libren@mst.edu
Merilee Krueger, associate teaching professor, psychological science, krueger@mst.edu
Doug Ludlow, professor, chemical and biochemical engineering, dludlow@mst.edu
Christi Patton Luks, associate teaching professor, chemical and biochemical engineering, luksc@mst.edu
Scott Miller, teaching professor, materials science and engineering, smiller@mst.edu
Kathryn Northcut, professor, English and technical communications, northcut@mst.edu
Hank Pernicka, professor, mechanical & aerospace engineering, pernicka@mst.edu
Dan Reardon, associate professor, English and technical communication, reardond@mst.edu
David Riggins, Curators’ Teaching Professor, mechanical & aerospace engineering, rigginsd@mst.edu
V.A. Samaranayake, Curators’ Teaching Professor, mathematics & statistics, vsam@mst.edu
Joe Stanley, professor, electrical and computer engineering, stanleyj@mst.edu
Jeff Schramm, associate professor, history & political science, schrammj@mst.edu
Theresa Swift, associate teaching professor, electrical and computer engineering, thswift@mst.edu
Agnes Vojta, teaching professor, physics, vojtaa@mst.edu
Dave Westenberg, associate professor, biological sciences, djwesten@mst.edu